Dear Parents/Guardians,

Our class will be embarking on an exciting learning adventure. We will be incorporating the use of weblogs, commonly known as 'blogs' in some reading activities. Blogs are a great way to engage students using technology, to extend their learning beyond the classroom walls, and can be very useful to record their reflections on their learning. Students will be using blogs to share their thinking about a variety of topics but in particular it is important for our Writer's and Reader's Workshop.

You are welcome to participate by reading the blogs. The blog address is <http://grade7and8.blogspot.com> this is a closed site, which I will moderate. Students will learn about how to blog safely and appropriately. The use of the blog will also be incorporated into History, Geography and Science. Students will be given time at school to access the blog, but are welcome to post at home as well.

Please join us as we learn about using blogs in our classroom.

Sincerely,

Angela Carter
